CREATIVE RESEARCH: CHOREOGRAPHY AND PERFORMANCE

At the University of Iowa

- 2025 The Space Between—Stories of Tension and Transformation
Examining Whiteness Through Black Vernacular Dance and Auto-Ethnographic Performance
Choreographer and Performer, MFA Thesis
Public Space One, Iowa City, IA
Set in a club atmosphere, this work emphasizes the uncertain and cyclical nature of transformation as a central theme, ultimately engaging auto-ethnographic performance, Black vernacular dance techniques, and values of African Diasporic storytelling in the artistic process— creating a theoretical framework for performance and pedagogy called the “In-Between,” which generates contexts informed by Hip Hop ontologies that challenge Western ideologies of dichotomous opposition.
- 2024 Deceptions on E. Davenport St.
Co-choreographer and Performer
Space Place Theater, Iowa City, IA

This proscenium work investigates intersections of gender and race performance, cohabitation, and Black vernacular dance forms that emphasize quick footwork and complex polyrhythms.

Co-choreographer and Performer (Currently Touring)

- Inhale Performance Series, Kun-Yang Lin/Dancers, Philadelphia, PA
- E/Merge: Moving Words, Moving Worlds, Space Place Theater, Iowa City, IA, 2024

Developed for The University of Iowa's annual collaboration between the International Writers Program and the Dance Department, this work was inspired by the poems of Sabyn Javeri. This piece employs Hip Hop Theater to investigate the Embodied consequences of colonialism.

2024

Plan A: Stories of Embodied Frontiers

Choreographer

- ACDA National Conference Selection, Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., 2025
- ACDA Regional Conference Selection, The University of Oklahoma, Norman, OK, 2025

Space Place Theater, Iowa City, Iowa

Feedback from adjudicators Stephanie Batten Bland, Thomas F. DeFrantz, and Daniel Roberts:

"An incredibly rich and complex exploration of modes of social and theatrical address. This work engages contemporary forms of dance along with spoken text and audience participation to create a tapestry of ideas that challenge us to consider what it is to think with the needs of a shared future."

2024

Plan A

Screendance director and editor

Space Place Theater, Iowa City, IA

Created as a screendance adaptation of a concert dance proscenium work, this piece utilizes green screen technology, spoken word, and vernacular dance to tell the collective story of characters informed by various forms of female birth control.

2023

#turnitoff

Choreographer and Performer

Space Place Theater, Iowa City, IA

This ten-minute solo is a socio-political call to action aimed at white women in the United States. The work intersects auto-ethnographic performance, digital media, spoken text, and contemporary dance forms to investigate and reflect the archetypes that white women have been socialized to embody in order to maintain a perceived sense of power while colluding with their own oppressors.

2023

A Moment

Screendance co-director and editor

Space Place Theater, Iowa City, IA

Through the utilization of poetry by Raphael Xavier, the film aims to shift the audience's perspective away from spectacle and exhibition, and towards the nuance and artistry of Breakin.'

2023

JACKed: An Experiment in Liberation Practices

Choreographer

Space Place Theater, Iowa City, IA

This performance ritual asks performer-participants to explore and excavate their individuality in real-time. Centralizing the foundational groove of house dance (the jack) as a tool for critical investigation, it asks how conversance with joy and personal identity infuses power into the experience of the collective.

2023

Tell Me I Belong

Co-choreographer and Performer

Space Place Theater, Iowa City, IA

Developed for The University of Iowa's annual collaboration between the International Writers Program and the Dance Department, this piece was inspired by a Yemeni poet and scholar, Saba Hamzah. This work utilizes Hip Hop theater to tell the story of a woman's experiences with anticipation, heartbreak, and finally, reclamation.

Dance Making and Performance Outside of the University of Iowa

2025

The Weight of Opened Hands

Choreographer for Workinonit series, hosted by Urban Movement Arts, First Unitarian Church, Philadelphia, PA

This work utilizes autoethnographic storytelling inspired by the stories of six dancers. Through the intersection of Hip Hop, Dimestop techniques, and spoken text, this work depicts an interdisciplinary tale of collective surrender.

- 2023 To Myself, Ten Years Ago
 Choreographer for UMA Shows Up series, hosted by Urban Movement Arts, FringeArts, Philadelphia, PA
 Inspired by a poem by novelist Lang Leav, this work intersects singing, spoken text, popping dance, house dance, and breakin' techniques to tell the choreographer's story of managing changes issued by experiences in womanhood.
- 2022 Mozart's Concerto No. 4 \(on the floor!\)
 Choreographer, Georgian Court University Spring Dance Concert, Lakewood, NJ
 Set on the Georgian Court University Dance Company as part of a choreographic residency, this work utilizes an original music score that intersects "4 on the floor" BPM and Mozart's Concerto works. Audiences follow a female dancer's character embodiment of Mozart, who is journeying to discover his truth through embracing club culture.
- 2019 I Didn't Say Those Things For Nothing.
 Choreographer and Performer, Come Together Festival, Philadelphia, PA
 This solo premiered as a part of Koresh Dance's Come Together Festival. Utilizing live spoken word and street dance theater, this solo performance follows an arc of contemplation on identity, intersectionality, and overcoming shame.

Dance Making and Performance On Behalf of Snack Break Movement Arts

- 2025 Pulse of the Reckoning
 Snack Break Movement Arts, Co-choreographer, choreographic residency at Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville, IL
 Inspired by Kamau Brathwaite's Tidalectic Un/Mapping and The Matrix, this work uses breakin' and Hip Hop grooves to interweave fractured identities, refusing failing systems while mapping new embodied possibilities beyond fixed structures.
- 2025 where the maps unfold...
 Snack Break Movement Arts, Co-choreographer and Performer SIUE Xfest: A Festival of Alternative Theater and Dance, Edwardsville, IL
 This work is a layered duet exploring identity, memory, and shared experience through street dance-inspired movement. Through embodied storytelling, performers trace a geography of presence where personal and political truths converge, resist, and transform. Each gesture maps terrain shaped by gender, race, and belonging, offering dance as a site of relational inquiry and feminist praxis.

HAUL

Snack Break Movement Arts, Co-choreographer and Performer
Prompt For the Planet, The Englert, Iowa City, IA.

Using sourced text from YouTube "try-on hauls", this work uses street dance and improvisational theater to ask the question, "How is the ocean feeling, concerning fast-fashion's massive contribution to pollution and carbon emissions?"

2024

Shimmer, Pop!

Collaboration between Snack Break Movement Arts, Dan Fine, Dana Keeton and Jennifer Kayle

The Open Air Media Festival, Public Space One, Iowa City, IA

This immersive and interdisciplinary work invites audiences into an enchanted world brought to life by projection, street dance, and bubbles!

2023

Captain's Log: A Series of Performance Sketches

Co-choreographer and Performer

Urban Movement Arts, Philadelphia, PA

Sponsored by Urban Movement Arts

Inspired by the popular TV series "The Twilight Zone," two performers utilize elements of theater, text, and dance to invite audiences into different worlds requiring further investigation.

2022

Truth or Dare

Co-choreographer and Performer

FringeArts, Philadelphia, PA

Sponsored by Urban Movement Arts

"Truth or Dare" is a Hip Hop theater work and evening-length duet that reconsiders an old game while challenging the social binaries that are implicit in the performer's mutual stage presence. With playful text and audience participation, the show asks performers and audience members to consider the revealing nature of vulnerability, the visceral nature of involvement, and the consequences that come along with choosing a path.

2021

The Framework

Co-choreographer

Franklin & Marshall College, Lancaster, PA

This work was developed during an artist residency at Franklin & Marshall College. Set on the students of the dance department, this work utilizes street dance and the personal stories of the dancers to create a framework for performance that builds upon itself.
